Special Events – Save the Dates

Living in Today's World: Challenges and Opportunities Sunday, May 18

Every generation is faced with different realities, even more so in the current rapidly changing world. For example, today's reality brings almost all of mankind together, and at the same time disconnects us from each other. We have almost limitless access to knowledge, but are faced with new dilemmas specifically because of that knowledge. What defines the unique role of this particular generation? What are we supposed to accomplish and what special potential does this reality offer unlike any previous generation's?
